TEAM ROADS LESS TRAVELED TO COMPETE IN WOMEN'S OFF-ROAD NAVIGATION RALLY OCTOBER 11-20

Rebelle Rally Covers More Than 2,000 Kilometers Across Nevada and California Desert

DENVER (August 29, 2018) – For the second straight year, Team Roads Less Traveled will compete in the Rebelle Rally, the first women's off-road navigation rally in the United States.

Covering more than 2,000 kilometers over eight days of competition across the Nevada and California desert, the Rebelle Rally blends the love of driving with the ultimate challenge of precise navigation.

Testing participants' skills, it is not a race for speed, but a unique and demanding event based on the elements of headings, hidden checkpoints, time, and distance using maps, compass, and a roadbook – no GPS or cell phones.

Driver Tiffany Walker of Colorado Springs, Colorado, and navigator Rori Lewis of Hesperia, California, make up Team Roads Less Traveled. As rookies, the duo finished in seventh place in the 2017 Rebelle Rally.

Surrounded by women who share her adventurous and competitive spirit, the opportunity for personal growth and to inspire others during the Rebelle Rally isn't lost on Walker.

"I want to challenge myself," says Walker. "I believe the skill and perseverance the Rebelle Rally requires will help me to reach a better understanding of who I am and who I want to become. I also want to show other women they can do anything they put their minds to."

Raised in Hesperia, Lewis works as an administrative assistant at Total Chaos Fabrication, manufacturer of aftermarket suspension systems and accessories for Toyota vehicles, and sponsor of both Team Roads Less Traveled and the Rebelle Rally.

With the 2017 Rebelle Rally under her belt, Lewis is very much looking forward to the 2018 event:

"That year of experience is huge, it settles the nerves a bit. There are so many little things we learned last year that will make our lives for the week a little more comfortable and enjoyable this time around. I am excited to go back and compete against these amazing ladies again."
